Hungarian Student Aid Fund Swells As BYUers, Provoans Give, Pledge

THE BANK ACCOUNT for the ngarian Student Committee is owing steadily, reports Ralph rney and Sally Arnold, co-airmen.

Contributions over the week-d from both individuals and eir venture for a new life, and groups are rapidly adding to the fund that will be used to aid two Hungarian 'Freedom Fighters' in education at BYU.

Individual sacrifices of some personal luxury have enabled students to contribute. These donations range from $1 to $40 and every one brings the Hungarians a step closer to Brigham Young University.

A GERMAN language class gave the $9.45 that they collected over the quarter from students who came late to class. This fund was to be used for a Christmas party but the class felt that to contribute the money to the HSC would be much more in keeping with the spirit of the holiday.

Total weekend donations tally at $55.45. This money is the beginning of the fund that is expected to eventually be large enough to supply the Hungarians with room and board, tuition, books, jobs and transportation—if all organizations volunteer monetary donations and pledges.

PROVO civic group, the 20-30 Club has volunteered $125 per year for two years, according to Murray MacInnes, downtown and civic groups chaidman.

Other campus organizations have discussed pledging money to the cause of liberty. Their definite response is necessary in order to give the committee an idea of coming contributions.

Groups who wish to volunteer aid to the HSC can bring or mail contributions to the Daily Universe Office.

Contributions Asked This Week for Annual Campus Fund Drive

by Sally Arnold

Soliciting for the 1956 Cam-s Chest Drive at Brigham ung University has begun ac-rding to John Wadsworth, airman.

Every student registered at YU will be given a chance this ek to contribute to the welfare hundreds of Utahns who are ippled or ill, as well as 90,000 ngarian refugees in Austria.

To meet this year's goal of 500, 50 cents per student must collected Wadsworth said.

Students will be contacted in-vidually and asked to contribute. This is the only time this year BYU students will be asked to make individual donations to charitable agencies.

Funds from the Campus Chest are annually divided among several Utah agencies. This year, in addition, 28 percent of the total intake of the drive has been pledged to Hungarian refugee relief. This money will be sent directly overseas to aid refugees from the recent Hungarian revolt who are now stranded in Austria in need of food, clothing and medicine.

Agencies which will benefit from the Campus Chest Drive include Crippled Children, Infantile Paralysis, Utah Heart Association. Crusade for Freedom, Salvation Army, Cancer Society of Utah County, Red Cross, Cerebral Palsy, Athens (Greece) College and Hungarian relief.

Wadsworth pointed out that the Campus Chest Drive should not be confused with the Hungarian Student Committee which was set up to bring two Hungarian students to BYU.

BYU Students Warned That Pre-Registration Required Next Quarter

Trial registration for winter quarter has been completed by 2048 students, according to Bliss Crandall dean of admissions.

All students registering for winter quarter must pre-register with their dean or counselor before the Christmas recess.

Under a new system inaugurated this quarter, students must have a trial registration completed and approved by their department chairman.

The trial registration slip must then be exchanged for a registration permit from the registrar's office. This permit must be shown at the Smith Fieldhouse door before students will be allowed to enter and register.

Validated trial registration slips will be placed in each student's class packet before registration.

This new system of registering is designed to prevent students from having to spend as much time with their counselors at the fieldhouse as in the past.

Registrants may go directly to class card distribution tables for cards after picking up registration packets. The only other registration process will be obtaining deans' signatures.

Students who are now registered in the counseling service program will be notified by mail who their new counselors will be.

In order to make the new program work, Dean Crandall said it is necessary for all students to schedule an equal number of morning and afternoon classes.

Students wishing to schedule all morning or afternoon classes must receive special permission from their deans.

January Hearing Seen By Justice In Athenian Case

The Athenian preliminary hearing will probably be postponed until winter quarter, according to Jack Nelson, Inter-Organization Council Court Chief Justice.

Alleged to have used taboo initiation procedures, the Athenian social unit will supposedly be tried as a "test case" to determine proper "goating" methods for all social units.

The second charge of displaying an "A" on "Y" mountain, leveled at the Athenians, is also expected to be a "test case" to determine the extent of "Y" mountain.

According to the IOC statute, the court has eighteen school days in which to hold the preliminary hearing.

S. L. Temple President To Speak At Devotional

ElRay L. Christiansen, assistant to the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles of the church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and President of the Salt Lake Temple, will be the speaker at Tuesday's devotional assembly.

In addition, the Choral Union of the Brigham Young University, directed by Ralph Woodward, will present a concluding number entitled "The Magnificat."

Need Not Sign-Up In BYU Blood Drive

Students who did not sign up to donate blood to the Red Cross may still make donations, according to Leona Robinson, co-chairman of the campus blood drive.

Donations are being made in the basement of the Eyring Science Center through Thursday of this week. A minimum of 600 pints is needed to fill the Brigham Young University quota.

Students should report to the reception desk in the basement of the Science Center to donate blood, Miss Robinson said.

Economics Chairman Succumbs After Thanksgiving Heart Illness

ELMER MILLER, Brigham Young University economics professor, died Sunday in Yuma, Ariz.

Prof. Miller, who was acting professor of the economics department, died at 2:30 a. m. of a heart ailment.

He had gone to Yuma to visit a daughter, Mrs. Merline Smith, over the Thanksgiving holiday when he became ill.

PROF. ELMER MILLER
. . . Dies in Arizona

Prof. Miller had taught at Pleasant Grove and Lehi High Schools, served as superintendent of schols of Davis County and Alpine School districts and was instructor at Dixie College in St. George.

HE HAD BEEN a faculty staff member at BYU since 1925.

Born March 22, 1887, in Spanish Fork, Prof. Miller was the son of James David and Emily Rebecca Snell Miller. On Nov. 25, 1914, he married Rosella Storris in the Salt Lake Temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

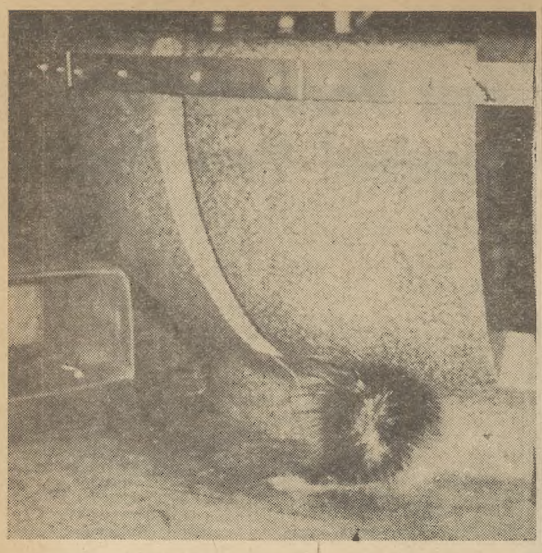

Prof. Miller received his bachelor of arts degree from Stanford University in 1914 and had done graduate work at Harvard University, the University of California and the University of Chicago.

HE HAD BEEN chairman of the BYU debate council for several years and was secretary of the Rocky Mountain Forensic League.

Survivors include his widow, daughters, Mrs. Smith, Yuma; Mrs. Mildred Mele, Long Island, N. Y.; Mrs. Anna Lou Miller, Salt Lake City; seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild and a sister, Mrs. Margaret Wiscombe, Salt Lake City.

Funeral services will be held at Berg Mortuary in Provo Thursday at 12 noon. Friends may call at Berg's from 6-8 p. m. and Thursday prior to services.

Burial will be in the Provo Cemetery.

COULD BE A RARIE?—Students found a shy visitor waiting to greet them Monday morning. A porcupine had somehow found his way into the lobby of the Eyring Science Center. At first the little animal seemed quite hospitable and friendly, but when students brazenly avoided him and others poked him with sticks, he became shy and hid his head. Next problem, how to get him into the box. (Photo by John Meeks)

Plastic Aid Tested As Teacher Helper

Accounting teachers do a lot of writing on the blackboard. Hoping to ease the teaching burden, the accounting department is experimenting with visual aids.

Plastic film with the visual images on it is placed in a stereoptican which projects the pictures on the board.

Two groups of students will take the same accounting course, one will use the visual aids and the other will use the chalk board method.

Through the experiment the accounting department hopes to learn whether or not the visual aids are effective as a teaching method.

A student working on his master's degree is carrying out the project.

Mother Goose Personified . . .

Relief Society Sponsors Bazaa

by Clifta Bright
Daily Universe Writer

A CHRISTMAS Jamboree was conducted Saturday by Brigham Young University Stake Relief Society.

BYU Campus First Ward sponsored a "Mother Goose" bazaar in the Wymount Chapel. Jewelry made of shells, ric-rac, cork and sequins, crocheted pieces, and flowers made from wood fiber were displayed in a "seashore" booth.

Stuffed dolls and monkeys made from stockings were hanging from the windows of "the old woman's" shoe. Another booth depicted the rub-a-dub rhyme and displayed aprons hanging on a clothesline to dry. Some of the styles were mother and daughter aprons made to match.

A ZOO BOOTH was overflowing with dashing deer, eager elephants, bashful bunnies, and cuddly cats. These were all stuffed animals made out of bright-colored materials.

The "Mother Goose" bakery contained a large variety of candies, cakes, pies and cookies.

Instead of silver bells and cockleshells, "Mistress Mary's" garden was full of skirts and shirts made for little boys and girls.

LITTLE BOY BLUE'S booth displayed decorated red flannel Christmas stockings, clever hot pot holders and luncheon sets, and pillowcases. Some interesting aprons for children had little holders attached for crayons or suckers.

The last booth displayed all kinds of baby quilts, so with squares of embroid imals.

Saturday afternoon strations were held in the Heritage Halls. Ela son, Tucson, Ariz., JoA sen, Preston, Ida., Na Cormick, Toronto, Otta ada and Beverly Liebha meda, Calif., conducted demonstrations.

Chronicles On Central America, Mexico Slated For Publication

Dr. M. Wells Jakeman, chairman of the department of archaeology of Brigham Young University, has announced a forthcoming publication on ancient Mexican and Central American chronicles to be issued by the department, entitled "Mesoamerican Chronicled History: The Earlier Periods."

It will embody translations and analysis of the ancient native and Spanish chronicles of Mexico and Central America. All materials from the chronicled history of this area which pertain to the Book of Mormon period and up to the tenth century A. D. will be presented in a synoptic form.

These chronicle-histories were written by native Indian and Spanish writers — princes, priests, soldiers, administrators, etc.—in the sixteenth century and contain the traditionary history of the Book of Mormon period in Middle America up to the time of the Spanish conquest.

Dr. Jakeman is a leading authority in this field, having written his doctoral dissertation on the pre-Spanish history of the Mayas, and has since published various studies in this field.

Dr. Jakeman previewed his forthcoming publication at a meeting of the BYU chapter of the University Archaeological Society Monday.

At this time, Dr. Jakeman gave special attention to the meaning and significance of the famous name "Quetzalcoatl" in ancient America, which is of special interest to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

'Penguin' Tryout Slated

Try-outs for the touring play, "Mr. Popper's Penguins," are scheduled for this week.

The play will be directed by Albert O. Mitchell who directed "The Snow Treasure" and "You Can't Take It With You" earlier this year. He will hold interviews in his office Tuesday and Thursday beginning at 4 p. m. in 135 Speech Center.

The participation of other entertainers, besides those interested in acting alone was urged. Singers, dancers and musicians are needed for the success of this production, according to Rick Johnson, assistant director.

"Mr. Popper's Penguins" will tour the Northwestern states late in the winter quarter.

F.L. Registration Urged

Students registering in the College of Family Living who have not yet completed trial registration should see their advisers between Monday and Friday.

Lists will be posted outside 248 and 312 in the Education building, lower campus, so that students may know who their present academic adviser is.

Students Can Make Novel Yule Decorations, Corsages, Food

by Joan Blodgett
Daily Universe Society Writer

FOR CHRISTMAS and all through the holidays, you can create decorations that will enhance the festivities.

You may use some of that spare time you're going to have (doesn't seem possible right now; but just wait until after the 12th—you'll see) for making novel decorations for your family tree and to brighten tables, mantels, and doors.

You may try festive food recipes, do-it-yourself gifts, or you may want to make a saucy Christmas corsage to pin on coat or sweater. The possibilities are as large as the scope of your imagination.

THE CHRISTMAS corsage may range from a part red bow or sprig of holly to an intricate design including everything except the proverbial kitchen sink.

The first step is to consider all available material. Sources include the Christmas tree where you will find greenery and pine cones.

Check your Christmas tree decorations for balls, bells, tinsel and icicles. Five and ten cent stores have an array of ribbon, cut-outs, foil, stars, holly, holly berries, felt, phony plants and flowers, and candy canes.

NEXT, DECIDE the mood your decoration will assume. This includes color, size, materials, and general design. Choose between a traditional red and green combination, a color scheme that will harmonize with your coat, or the more unusual —strong or pastel or metallic colors.

Size—it's strictly up to you. Dont's make yourself feel like a Christmas tree. If you prefer it small, limit the number of items, rather than their size.

CHOOSE FROM your available materials those you will use. Consider several possible combinations. Don't discard any ideas just because they sound unconventional. Try 'em. Your design will carry out your mood. It too may follow traditional lines or modern trend.

The third step is construction. Needle and thread, florists' tape, wire, staples, string or a combination of these will prove valuable. Use one of your materials, probably the largest one, as a starting point and build on it. Or you may use a piece of felt as a backing, attaching items to it.

Skyline Teams Get Poor Start In Casaba Play

SKYLINE basketballers had their ups and downs last week as the lid was lifted off the '56-57 hoop schedule.

With league play not beginning until January, the intermountain clubs lost 7 of 12 games last week.

Brigham Young University surprised the University of Washington, strong Pacific coast contender, by edging the towering Huskies 70-66 Saturday after dropping a Friday thriller to Oregon State College's tall timber, 55-62.

RANKED 17th nationally, Denver was disappointing in 60-67 and 59-62 losses to Seattle and Idaho State in the Pocatello tournament.

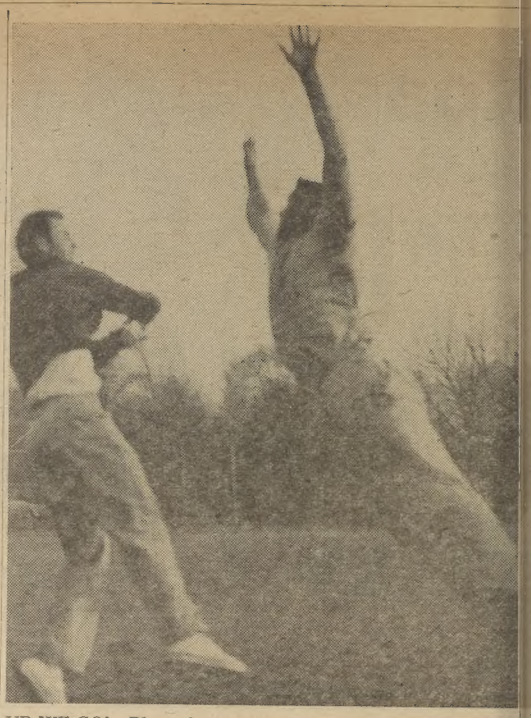

Idaho State bested Utah State 66-60, while Seattle downed the Aggies 66-59.

New Mexico whipped New Mexico A & M in a 64-62 squeaker.

Utah entertains Hawaii a second time Tuesday in the Ute fieldhouse. Thursday finds Brigham Young University journeying to Ames, Iowa for a clash with Iowa State. Utah State meets Eastern Washington at Cheney, Wash; New Mexico at El Paso for a game with Texas Western.

FRIDAY pits the Lobos against New Mexico A & M in a "return bout," while Utah opens a two-game series against Arizona, Friday and Saturday. Wyoming moves to Southern California and Montana meets Washington State.

Other Saturday games include Denver at Iowa, Colorado A & M, who whipped Colorado State 76-56, against Colorado University, Brigham Young vs. Michigan State at East Lansing, Mich. and Montana vs. Idaho in Moscow.
